Objectives of the event:

To study the possibilities & potential of agriculture business and to promote ideas of entrepreneurship in agriculture sector.

Event description:

Mr. Narendra shared his ideas and vision on agriculture, as India is an agricultural nation.
As the leading sector in terms of employment and contributing over 16 percent to the country's GDP, agriculture in India is responsible for the livelihoods of millions.
Love the land and have a head for business? Be the future of agriculture! Turn your passion into profit by starting your own venture. Ag entrepreneurship combines fresh ideas with age-old practices, feeding a growing world and building a rewarding career. It's your chance to innovate, grow, and be your own boss!

i) Subsistence farming:
The majority of farmers in India practice subsistence farming- farming for their consumption. The entire production is largely consumed by the farmers and their families and they do not have any surplus to sell in the market.

ii) Intensive and Extensive farming
The basic difference between these two types of farming is the amount of production per unit of land. In comparison with temperate areas of the USA, Canada, India do not practice extensive cultivation.

iii) Commercial farming
It is just the opposite of subsistence farming as most of the produce is sold in the market for earning money. In this system, farmers use inputs like irrigation, chemical fertilizers, insecticides, pesticides, High Yielding Varieties of seeds, etc.

iv) Plantation Farming:
In this type, a single cash crop is grown for sale in national and international markets. This type of agriculture involves the growing and processing of a single cash crop purely meant for sale.

All these points were shared by our passionate speaker.

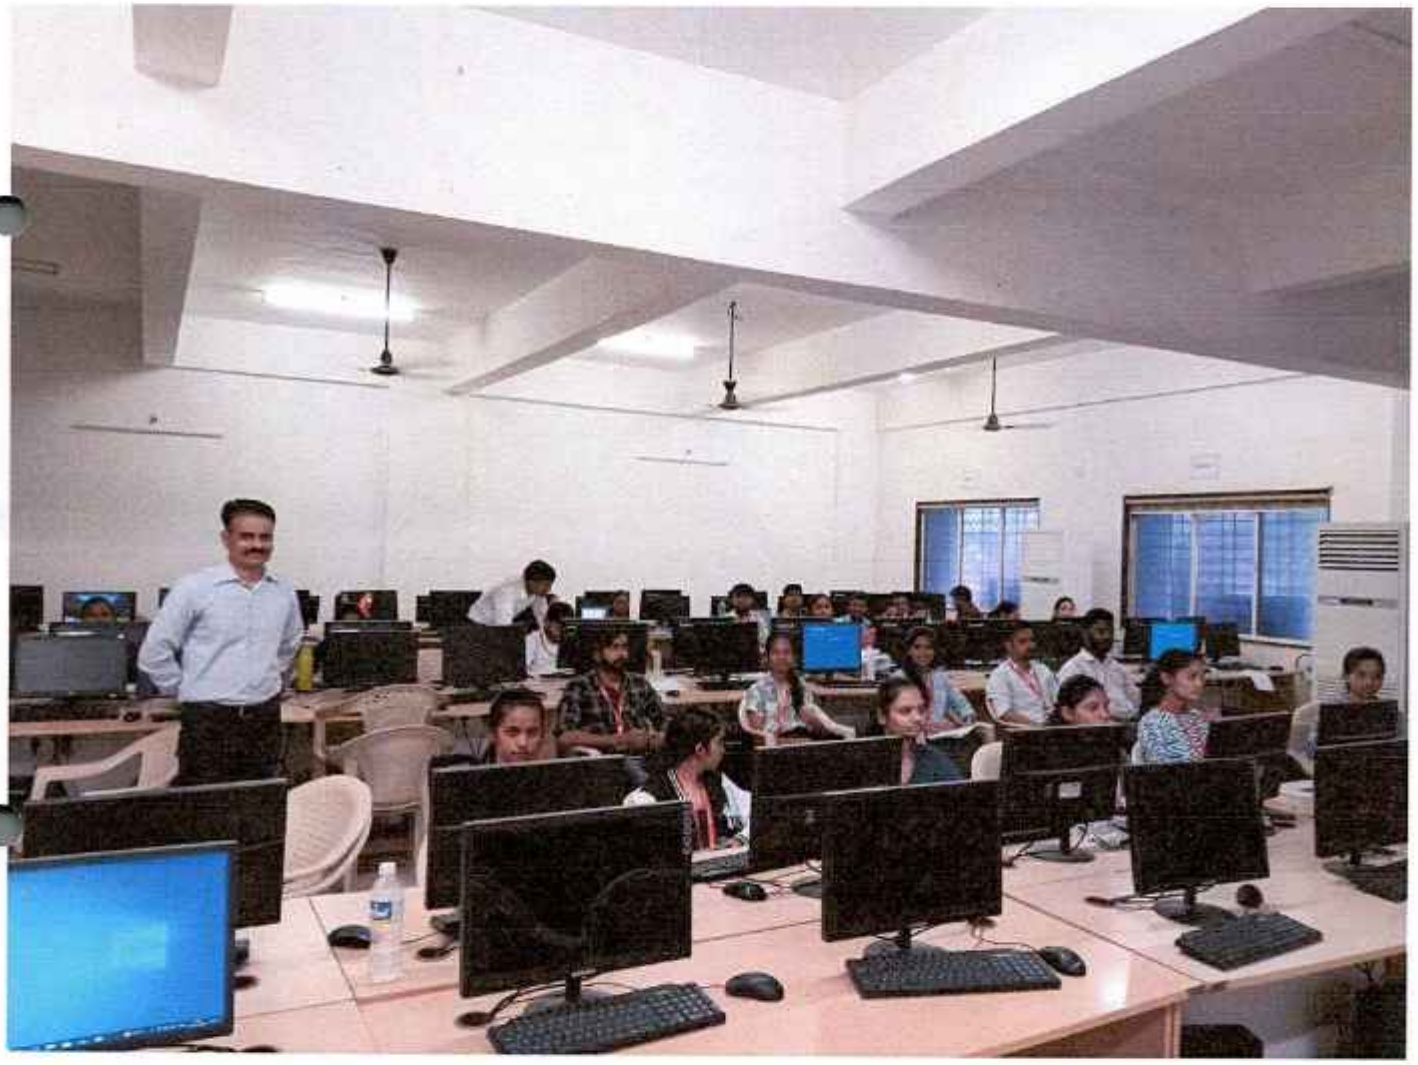

#MBADIMR #Agriculture #Agrientrepreneur

Learning outcome:

- How to find a competitive in this growing market.
- How to create value for agriculture based products.

Objectives of the Event:

- Promote Knowledge Sharing and Commercialization.
- Protect Ownership and Originality.
- Balance Public and Private Interests.

Event Description:

- Intellectual property (IP) rights are the legal guardians of our creative endeavors. They encompass the rights to inventions, artistic works, symbols, and designs. These rights act as a shield, granting creators exclusive control over how their ideas are used for a set period. This incentivizes innovation by ensuring creators reap the rewards of their hard work. Imagine writing a novel – copyright protects your story, allowing you to control its publishing and adaptations. Patents, on the other hand, safeguard inventions, like a new medical device, by preventing unauthorized duplication. Trademarks protect brand identities, like the iconic swoosh of a sportswear company.
- IP rights aren't just about individual gain; they foster knowledge sharing. Creators can license their work, allowing others to build upon their ideas and accelerate progress. However, IP law balances private interests with public good. Patents eventually expire, making inventions accessible for broader use. Copyright law allows "fair use" exceptions, enabling critical analysis and education. Understanding IP rights empowers creators, fosters innovation, and ensures ideas flourish while protecting their originators.

Learning Outcome:

- Explain the rights granted by IPR ownership.
- Identify protectable subject matter.
- Develop strategies for protection.

Event description:

Empowered women empower women. Ms. Harshita Dadhich, this young entrepreneur's passion for producing designer diaries not only fuels her own success but inspires others to follow their dreams and find their niche."

Entrepreneurship is not about having an idea, it's about finding a market opportunity that others have overlooked, and creating a product or service that meets the needs of customers better than existing alternatives. This is exactly what a young female entrepreneur has done in creating designer diaries - identifying a niche market and filling it with a product that is unique, beautiful, and functional.

She's a young woman with a vision, a passion for design, and an entrepreneurial spirit that's taking her places. Her journey may have started with a simple idea, but she's turning it into something truly remarkable - a line of designer diaries that reflect her unique style and creativity. With each new diary, she's carving out a niche for herself in the world of fashion and design, and inspiring other young women to follow their dreams and create their own paths.
On 24th February 2023, DIMR students got an opportunity to meet Ms. Harshita Dadhich who shared her experience of starting and growing her business, and provided valuable insights and advice for aspiring entrepreneurs in the industry.

In her entrepreneurial talk, she emphasized the importance of having a clear vision and mission for your business. She encouraged MBA students towards the path of entrepreneurship as to identify their unique strengths and passions, and to use those to guide their business decisions. For Harshita, her passion for design and organization led her to create a product that was not only functional but also aesthetically pleasing.

She also stresses the importance of market research and customer feedback. She advised to listen to the customers and to use their feedback to improve the products and services. Her business venture is able to grow and expand by listening to the needs and preferences of her customers and adapting her designs accordingly.

Overall, the session with Harshita provided MBA students with valuable insights and guidance on a range of topics related to business and entrepreneurship. Her emphasis on having a clear vision, Passion, ability to take risk and not to shy away from any work can help aspiring entrepreneurs to start and grow successful businesses.

Objectives of the event:

- To learn basics of mobile photography.
- To learn the relation between human emotions like empathy, patience, tolerance, diligence, perseverance & persistence with cutting edge technology.

Event description:

The generation Z is digital and tech-savvy, born with the gadgets around them. They are laced with the knowledge and information and know how to handle and make best use of the technology.

But howsoever advanced and cutting edge the machines, tools, gadgets and technology becomes, it won't give you best of the results if not conjugated with the human emotions and traits like empathy, patience, tolerance, diligence, perseverance & persistence.
Although the generation is obsessed with the 'Selfies' and it's their regimen to click photos all the while, not missing a single moment of their lives and making sure nothing remains unnoticed, we thought of taking that habit and hobby to the next level. So instead of criticising their obsession for photography, we at DIMR tried to give it a dimension of creativity and learning.

A workshop on 'Mobile Photography' was organised by DIMR for the students with 'Sadiqslens'. The students were so excited to participate in such a unique and distinctive workshop. Mr. Sadiq Dastagir, Managing Director of 'Grace Audio Video', a film- editor and photographer by profession having more than 20 years of experience in film making conducted this amazing workshop.

The students were delighted to learn some wonderful tricks and hacks in mobile photography and got a completely new angle of knowledge of discrete use of the features and functions available in their mobile gadgets.

So watch out for their next clicks post this workshop, you would be left spellbound with their photography skills for sure.

- Students acquired a knowledge of mobile photography as well as techniques and tricks for better clicks.

Objectives of the Event:

- Promote Knowledge Sharing and Commercialization.
- Protect Ownership and Originality.
- Balance Public and Private Interests.

Event Description:

- Intellectual property (IP) rights are the legal guardians of our creative endeavors. They encompass the rights to inventions, artistic works, symbols, and designs. These rights act as a shield, granting creators exclusive control over how their ideas are used for a set period. This incentivizes innovation by ensuring creators reap the rewards of their hard work. Imagine writing a novel – copyright protects your story, allowing you to control its publishing and adaptations. Patents, on the other hand, safeguard inventions, like a new medical device, by preventing unauthorized duplication. Trademarks protect brand identities, like the iconic swoosh of a sportswear company.
- IP rights aren't just about individual gain; they foster knowledge sharing. Creators can license their work, allowing others to build upon their ideas and accelerate progress. However, IP law balances private interests with public good. Patents eventually expire, making inventions accessible for broader use. Copyright law allows "fair use" exceptions, enabling critical analysis and education. Understanding IP rights empowers creators, fosters innovation, and ensures ideas flourish while protecting their originators.

Learning Outcome:

- Explain the rights granted by IPR ownership.
- Identify protectable subject matter.
- Develop strategies for protection.

Objectives of the Event:

- Promote Knowledge Sharing and Commercialization.
- Protect Ownership and Originality.
- Balance Public and Private Interests.

Event Description:

- Intellectual property (IP) rights are the legal guardians of our creative endeavors. They encompass the rights to inventions, artistic works, symbols, and designs. These rights act as a shield, granting creators exclusive control over how their ideas are used for a set period. This incentivizes innovation by ensuring creators reap the rewards of their hard work. Imagine writing a novel – copyright protects your story, allowing you to control its publishing and adaptations. Patents, on the other hand, safeguard inventions, like a new medical device, by preventing unauthorized duplication. Trademarks protect brand identities, like the iconic swoosh of a sportswear company.
- IP rights aren't just about individual gain; they foster knowledge sharing. Creators can license their work, allowing others to build upon their ideas and accelerate progress. However, IP law balances private interests with public good. Patents eventually expire, making inventions accessible for broader use. Copyright law allows "fair use" exceptions, enabling critical analysis and education. Understanding IP rights empowers creators, fosters innovation, and ensures ideas flourish while protecting their originators.

Learning Outcome:

- Explain the rights granted by IPR ownership.
- Identify protectable subject matter.
- Develop strategies for protection.

Objectives of the Event:

- To understand the essence and principles of NAAC.

Event Description:

Dnyansagar Institute of Management & Research successfully conducted a 'Seven Days e-FDP on NAAC Accreditation' in association with EduMentor from 21st July to 27th July 2020.
Setting up quality standards, striving ceaselessly to raise the benchmark and making quality assurance is an integral part of the higher education is the way forward for the functioning of higher education institutions. Keeping this in mind, this Faculty Development Programme was aimed at understanding the essence of NAAC Accreditation process. The objective of this FDP was to make the participating faculties well acquainted with the criteria wise guidelines, P's & Q's, steps to be taken forward and scaling up to upgrade the facilities and ultimately the educational quality standards.

It is very crucial to mobilize the intellectual prowess of the academic fraternity from probable nugatory distractions towards the constructive learning and be resolute during this tough phase of Covid-19". The prime purpose of this FDP was to make the academicians of higher education institutions keep themselves abreast of the inexorable accreditation process and cycles, ultimately keeping them cognizant to recuperate.

The Faculty Development Programme started on 21st July through zoom online platform. This e-FDP got an overwhelming response from the teaching fraternity of higher education institutions from all across the country. Around 900 faculties from Kashmir to Tamilnadu and Orissa & West Bengal to Gujrat registered for this e-FDP.

The major highlight of this e-FDP was that the eminent speakers from different states holding more than 30 years of industry and academic experience including an experience of an assessee as well as an assessor, addressed the participants on seven different criteria of NAAC Accreditation.

The first speaker of this e-FDP, Dr. Aftab Alam, Director of A. J. Management Development Institute, New Delhi, threw light on the Criteria-III: Research, Innovations & Extension. The Second day of the FDP was graced by Dr. J. P. Majumdar, Professor in Faculty of Management, Maharaja Krishnakumarsinhji Bhavnagar University, Bhavnagar, Gujrat, who addressed the audience on Criteria-IV: Infrastructure & Learning Resources. The third day of an e-FDP was marked with the presence of Dr. R. Nageshwar Rao, Professor, Department of Business Management & Director-IQAC, Osmania University, Hyderabad, Telangana, who guided the attendees on Criteria-I: Curricular Aspects. The resource person for the fourth day of FDP was Dr. Aisha Sheriff, Professor & Chairperson, B. N. Bahadur Institute of Management

Director
Dnyansagar Institute of Management and Research

Sciences, University of Mysore, Mysore, who took the participants through the NAAC Criteria-V: Student Support & Progression. Dr. M. S. Khan, Dean & Head of Department - School of Management & Commerce, Babasaheb Bhimrao Ambedkar University, Lucknow gave a glimpse of NAAC Criteria-VI: Governance, Leadership & Management to the participants on the sixth day of FDP. On the concluding day of an e-FDP, Dr. Gunmala Suri, Professor, Punjab University, Chandigarh enlightened the faculties on the NAAC Criteria-VII: Institutional Values & Best Practices.

The whole world is gasping in the Corona Pandemic and everyone was startled to see the World's most fancied economy grappling desolately & topping the list of worst hit in GDP growth.
All sectors including most of the core sectors nosedived except one that stood strong and in fact emerged triumphant with a 3.4% growth...Agriculture! A sector that creates around 60% of employment is opening new business avenues with a mercurial market, evolving customers & capricious technology.

Day 1 of the 'Webinar on Career opportunities in Agriculture' was a sort of revelations unrolled by the speaker Prof. Iftekhar Khan, touching upon ample lesser known and disregarded but latent avenues in the field of agribusiness. It would be pitiful and unfortunate of us if we don't capitalize on it with the bountiful resources at our disposal.
An overwhelming response from the Agricos and other enthusiastic participants from all across the country made First Day of Webinar really remarkable.

Objectives of the event:

- To know the opportunities available in agri business.

Learning outcome:

- Students gained the knowledge about agriculture industry and the opportunities available in agri business.

Objectives of the Event:

- Guarantee of Authenticity.
- Preservation of Tradition and Cultural Heritage.
- Sustainable Practices.
- Community Development

Event Description:

- Geographical Indications (GIs) act like a badge of honor for products with a unique tie to a specific place. Imagine a tangy cheese only found in a specific mountain region – a GI can recognize its origin and special qualities.
- Guaranteeing Authenticity: Consumers can trust that a product with a GI comes from the designated area and adheres to traditional production methods or possesses specific characteristics linked to that location. Think of the distinct flavour of coffee beans grown in a volcanic soil region.
- Preserving Tradition: GIs safeguard traditional knowledge and practices associated with producing these unique products. This can involve everything from harvesting methods to specific ingredients or production techniques passed down through generations.
- Promoting Fair Competition: GIs prevent competitors from misleading consumers by using the name or reputation associated with a specific region. This ensures a fair marketplace and protects the economic interests of producers in the designated area.

Learning Outcome:

- Analyze real-world GI case studies.
- Explore the process for registering a GI.
- Discuss the international framework for GIs.

- To learn the importance of dressing correctly to appear more professional.

Event Description:

It is rightly said that 'A person is known by his/her dress & address'. An individual's dressing sense speaks volumes of his/her character & personality. If you are sheeple to wear something to please others or just because everyone else is wearing the same, you would end up suffocating your inner 'You'. If you try to be overtly ostentatious or subtle, it won't contemplate the real you.

You can't hide your real persona by just wrapping something around. Whatever you wear should reflect the real you. The girls of DIMR attended a workshop on 'How to dress the way you would like to be Addressed', conducted by Ms. Prerana Chouhan, a personality, grooming & lifestyle coach.

Learning Outcome:

- Students learned about the importance of dressing correctly and appropriately to appear more professional.
- Students understood the importance of correct dressing for appear more confident and professional.

The intention behind education is to pass the values, rules and concepts to the next generation. We, at DIMR encourage exploratory learning process, wherein teachers and students are co-travelers in search of 'Understanding of Knowledge'. In our approach, we do not want to label anything as 'Final Answer', we believe in triggering the curiosity in the minds of students, rest will happen in its own accord.

About Conference

'Entrepreneurial Ecosystem' refers to the elements – individuals, organizations or institutions – outside the individual entrepreneur that are conducive to, or inhibitive of, the choice of a person to become an entrepreneur, or the probabilities of his or her success.

The conference intends to facilitate development of a healthy ecosystem which in turn can boost essential factors like Innovation and New Business Idea, Financing and Sourcing Resources, Marketing and Promotion, Managing Growth and Succession Planning among others.

Objectives

To incite a pool of talent to move away from just 'Being employable' towards 'Creating employment' for millions in urban and rural areas.

To build a concern about the development and contribute to it by taking up innovations & entrepreneurial activities with strategic approach like forming an effective organization, coordination of entrepreneurial functions & business activities, sound planning and rational decision making.

To induce younger generation for exploring opportunities around them in present entrepreneurial ecosystem and finding scope for sustainable Entrepreneurship Development in economic, social, environmental and technical scenario.

Objectives of the Event:

- The formation of "NIRMAAN" – will function in association with Global Innovators & Entrepreneurs Network (GIENET) towards developing an ecosystem for the start-ups.

Event Description:

Scout Innovation was the main lead for DIMR behind this successful program. Being unruly, riotous, unconventional and unprecedented has no longer termed to be defiant or rebellious. Breaking stereotypes is no more a sin or rather prototyping a disruptive innovation is veering off the course. The generation & its cogitation is changing, so as the technology & World economy. The younger generation is brimful of caliber so much so to detonate into some discovery. Prosaic & run-of-the-mill development is not their forte.

All in all, the word 'Innovation' is losing its ground, making way for 'Disruption' to hold the ground. There is no dearth of such disrupters and the entire globe is becoming a huge platform for the lateral thinkers to explore. If this process of creative disruption radicalizes the marketplace by overturning the existing conventions for betterment of humankind, society & environment at large, making this planet a better place to live; it should be enclasped.

It would be infelicitous if we fail to abet and endorse the ideas and gumptious efforts of the budding and aspiring entrepreneurs. How long would we have left behind in this endeavor to bestow and contribute towards developing an ecosystem for the start-ups and entrepreneurial activities? On May 11th 2019, a new leaf has turned over in the history of DIMR. 'NIRMAAN' was inaugurated in the presence of Shri. Ganpatrao Balwadkar, Chairman - SKP Campus, Dr. Sajid Alvi, Director – DIMR, Mr. Mangesh Wankhade, Scout Innovations & Mr. Pankaj Jain of GIENET & Mr. Mayur Vyawhare of IOTians Global. NIRMAAN will function in association with Global Innovators & Entrepreneurs Network (GIENET) towards developing an ecosystem for the start-ups.

Learning outcome:

- NIRMAAN will function in association with Global Innovators & Entrepreneurs Network (GIENET) towards developing an ecosystem for the start-ups.

Event Description:

There are multiple facets to a Human Life. No human in this world is deemed to be quintessential and there lies the beauty of a 'Wabi-sabi' world according to Japanese philosophy. There is no perennial cure to human fallibility & frailty. In spite of the grey shades of human disposition, every human is a paragon of rectitude.

Every human has something riveting and beguiling to share with others. Every human can be a 'book' to read out from. DIMR hosted a 'Human Library' session organised by 'Global Harmony Trust'. This idiosyncratic event witnessed 12 human books with diverse substance & gist and many insatiable readers from all across the city.

Learning Outcome:

Every human has something riveting and beguiling to share with others. This activity was based on the same principal where the views can be exchanged.

"Intellectual Property Rights (IPR)"

Event Type: Seminar

Event Name: Intellectual Property Rights (IPR)

Objectives of the Event:

- Promote Knowledge Sharing and Commercialization.
- Protect Ownership and Originality.
- Balance Public and Private Interests.

Event Description:

- Intellectual property (IP) rights are the legal guardians of our creative endeavors. They encompass the rights to inventions, artistic works, symbols, and designs. These rights act as a shield, granting creators exclusive control over how their ideas are used for a set period. This incentivizes innovation by ensuring creators reap the rewards of their hard work. Imagine writing a novel – copyright protects your story, allowing you to control its publishing and adaptations. Patents, on the other hand, safeguard inventions, like a new medical device, by preventing unauthorized duplication. Trademarks protect brand identities, like the iconic swoosh of a sportswear company.
- IP rights aren't just about individual gain; they foster knowledge sharing. Creators can license their work, allowing others to build upon their ideas and accelerate progress. However, IP law balances private interests with public good. Patents eventually expire, making inventions accessible for broader use. Copyright law allows "fair use" exceptions, enabling critical analysis and education. Understanding IP rights empowers creators, fosters innovation, and ensures ideas flourish while protecting their originators.

Learning Outcome:

- Explain the rights granted by IPR ownership.
- Identify protectable subject matter.
- Develop strategies for protection.
